Governor Giving Education Higher Priority According to Chancellor Reynolds

Chancellor W. Ann Reynolds of The California State University last week issued the following statement on the 1984-85 Governor's Budget as presented to the Legislature. "The 1984-85 budget presented by Governor Deukmejian to the Legislature today is the most positive funding proposal for The California State University in several years. It would mark an important turning point by reversing erosions which have occurred in our programs in recent years. "The budget provides $1,149,053,000 for support and $27,767,000 for capital outlay. This includes a 21% increase in state General Fund appropriations of almost $200 million. This allocation will make it possible for the CSU to regain some of its potential in conducting needed educational services for California. "I appreciate the initiative and the collaboration of the Executive Branch in reviewing and responding to the needs of the CSU as they were presented by the Board of Trustees. Yesterday, in a meeting with the Governor's Chief of Staff, I was informed that education will remain a high priority of the Administration in future years. "I laud the Governor's proposal to reduce student fees by approximately $42 per student during the 1984-85 academic year, and to increase student financial aid. Although the Governor's Budget does not incorporate

A.S. PRESIDENT FINDS JOB DEMANDING

After he was elected as the Associated Students President for this school year, Rod Hendry has discovered that things don't always go as he plans. "At times everything goes great; it seems like nothing can go wrong. Other times it can be quite the opposite, but that's what makes it interesting."

"It takes a lot of time and effort to initiate change. In fact it takes a lot of effort just to maintain the day-to-day demands placed on this organization by administrators, students, and faculty. But, it's the price you pay to accomplish anything worthwhile," said Hendry.

"Being president is a challenge, it provides an opportunity to meet and work with key individuals and to develop leadership and time management skills," he added.

Between his job as president and the time he puts into studying for his Master's Degree in English composition, Hendry has very little time for other activities. "Though I enjoy the position and all that it offers, it does take a lot of time. It can be difficult to balance my time between school, my A.S. responsibilities, work, and personal life."

The day to day demands for Hendry include many responsibilities. Some of these include chairing the Student Union Board and the Instructionally Related Programs Board, and being a member of the Faculty Senate, Student Services Fee Review Panel, and the Associated Students board of Directors. In addition, Hendry sits on various other committees. "Though my schedule is a bit busy, I want students to feel free to stop by any time," Hendry said.

Hendry is also very active for students on the state level. Every month the nineteen Cal State Campus A.S. Presidents and/or representatives meet to discuss state wide issues and legislation. The organization is called the California State Student's Association (CSSA). This past year Hendry was elected chair for the Academic Affairs Committee of the organization.

When questioned about the CSSA, Hendry stated, "I think that the CSSA has been very effective in working on and representing student issues. I have placed much emphasis on my involvement with CSSA, because I feel that if we wish to be effective at the campus level, we must be active and committed at the state level."

"It's just about this time of year when the CSSA is most active, especially since the Governor's budget is coming out soon. It has been said that fees for the CSU will be lower in the upcoming year. Without a doubt, part of the reason for this reduction is a direct result of the efforts of the CSSA," Hendry remarked.

After reviewing his first few months in office, Hendry said, "I think, overall it's been a successful quarter for

Revised Final Examination Schedule Winter Quarter 1984

January 16, Martin Luther King Jr.'s birthday, will be observed as an academic and administrative holiday. In order to maintain the appropriate number of class meetings, it will be necessary for classes which meet on Monday to continue through Monday, March 19. All other courses will conclude at the date originally scheduled, March 16.

Final examinations that had been scheduled to be held on Monday, March 19 (refer to page 17, Winter Class Schedule) will be held on Friday, March 23 instead.

Final examinations for classes meeting Friday only will remain on Friday, March 23, but will move to the 10:30-12:30 time slot.

All other final examinations will remain as listed.

Suspect Arrested in CSCSB Student Hit And Run Case

by Dennis M. Hatcher

A suspect has been taken into custody for the hit-and-run accident that left a 19 year old CSCSB student's leg amputated.

Acting on a lead that came as a result of a reward offered through "WE TIP," a community criminal apprehension organization, San Bernardino police arrested Michael Garcia Caudillo, 24, at his home in Highland. The arrest took place on Dec. 6, 1983, exactly 2 months after Lee Cardon, a student on this campus, was struck by a pick-up truck while riding his small motorcycle. The accident took place when the compact, olive-green truck ran through the stop sign at the intersection of 40th and H street, striking Cardon as he was returning from work on the afternoon of Oct. 7. Cardon's left leg was amputated just below the knee by the force of the speeding truck. Although the severed leg was recovered and packed in ice, doctors were unable to reattach it.

The arrest of Caudillo culminates a tremendous effort by Cardon's mother and San Bernardino Police detective Mike McKee to find the truck and apprehend a suspect.

"The main reason we got this far in the case is because of Mrs. Cardon's efforts," McKee said. Det. Jerry Ryen, who assisted in the case echoed that opinion. "Mrs. Cardon deserves great credit for her diligent efforts. She was calling all the time, getting as much information as she could."

Mrs. Cardon had hundreds of orange fliers made up which she distributed all over the city. The fliers contained a description of the wanted vehicle and were especially prominent in convenience food stores and auto parts stores.

The break in the case, according to detectives McKee and Ryen, came when a deputy sheriff called San Bernardino police to report that he had received some information about a vehicle matching the description of the hit and run vehicle. The anonymous tipper gave the name of a street where the truck could be found.

"We had checked this street before, but had never seen this truck until then," Ryen stated.

After questioning the owner, the truck was impounded and the owner's next door neighbor, Caudillo was arrested.

Caudillo is currently out on bail, and arraignment is expected sometime this week.

ARE YOU SATISFIED ?

by Jena Plourde

Are you satisfied?
Does everything you need to meet your academic and professional goals head on?
The degrees offered here are perfect for you?

Sometimes students have special educational and/or career goals and find that Cal State San Bernardino doesn't have an existing degree program that will satisfy their expectations.

After all, a minimum of four years of time, money, stress and anxiety isn't something you'd want to throw away on a degree that isn't headed in the same direction you are. So work for a degree that's right for you.

How can I do that when Cal State doesn't have the major I want? There is a way if you're willing to work for what's important to you.

You can design your own degree. The Special Major program is something almost every college or university has with varying differences on each campus. These programs are available for students with special cases. For instance, you might want to major in something Cal State doesn't offer but you're bound economically to the area because you live with your parents and are close to the campus.

This isn't a rare problem, and even though you can't design a recognized degree that Cal State just doesn't have yet, you can design a major that will still lead you into the field you know someday you will want to pursue.

"you can design your own degree."

To attempt to design your own major is a course of action for only those students who are strong of heart and will, and are genuinely motivated. In other words, you've really got to want it and know that this might be the only way you're ever going to be satisfied going to college here. And once that special major of yours is passed, you'll know that you've fixed a wrong in your life and you'll feel really good about it.

"Not many undergraduates make it", said Lil Haskell, Secretary for the Office of Academic Programs. "Sometimes after meeting with an advisor they realize another major will meet their goals...or after they find out what they have to do to get one passed they back out."

No problem. Got someone here who knows what they want and is ready to go for it, right?

Good. Let's start.

There are three things to consider before you beat the west-bound paths to room 196 in the Admin Bldg for an application. First, you must have 45 units or more to complete to meet the minimum requirements for a bachelor's degree. Second, your plan must include 36 units of upper division course work. And third, you can't use any general education requirements as minimum requirements in your Special Major. Still with me? Next, get a full-time faculty member to be your academic advisor. Your advisor should be from a field related to your major. He or she will review and discuss with you what you've designed, to make sure it will work.

The first technical step is to submit your application to the Office of Academic Planning. This is a written request for approval that will state your academic and professional reasons for wanting a special degree and will include an outlined, proposed plan of study.

In other words, the College Committee on Curriculum and Instruction, to whom your application is forwarded, wants to know why you feel you need this program and what the courses will be.

Have in mind how the different courses you have chosen relate to each other and what their values are in relation to the degree. Consider the depth, the courses of one field or school, and the width, adding of branches to the main track of study, and know how this Special Major will lead to fulfilling your academic and/or career goals. These are things the Committee will look for in your application.

The College Committee on Curriculum and Instruction meets two or three times a month. Undergrads can contact Associate Vice President of Academic Programs at 887-7521. This is Dr. Jerrold Pritchard and he will help you get started. Graduate students can contact Dean of Graduate Studies, Dr. Lorelee McPike at 887-7755.

West German Consulate General To Speak At CSCSB

The German Club of CSCSB in conjunction with the class, Humanities 460, Studies in Culture Germany, will sponsor two lectures, which are open to the public.

Mr. Herbert Quelle, consul for press and public information, the Consulate General of the Federal Republic of Germany, L.A., will cover German history after WW II in his lecture, "Post-War Germany."

A reception will follow the lecture to be given on Jan. 23, 1984 from 4-6 p.m. in PL 241.

Mr. Max Handy, LLB will conclude his lecture, "From the Iron Curtain to the Berlin Wall," with a slide presentation of West Berlin. Mr. Handy will speak on Jan. 18 from 4-6 p.m. in PL 241.

For more information contact Miranda Munson at 887-7445.

On-Campus Recruiting: Winter Quarter

The campus recruiting schedule for the Winter Quarter has been established. Students are reminded that only those registered with the Placement Center are eligible to interview with those employers requiring appointments. Appointments may be made by contacting the Career Planning and Placement Center, SS 116, 887-7551. All students may visit with recruiters on the South side of the Library who do not require individual appointments.

**Note: A reminder that students must be registered with the Placement Center, have a final resume on file, and sign up at least two days prior to the scheduled recruiter visit to be eligible to interview with those recruiters requiring appointments.*

Evening Child Care

To make attending college easier for parents, CSCSB is offering an evening child care service for winter quarter beginning Jan. 9.

Registration is now being taken for the children of persons planning to attend classes during the late afternoon. Care is available from 4-6 p.m. with evening hours of 6-10 p.m., Monday through Thursday. A heavy schedule of classes is offered during those time frames.

The cost is $1.50 per hour for one child and $1 per hour for each additional child from the same family. Children age two through 14 are eligible. They must be in good health and younger children must be toilet trained, said Pam Dortch, director of the Children's Center.

The program, also open to faculty and staff, is designed to provide enriched child care to meet the needs of the entire age range. Activities included are study hall with tutoring for the school age children, crafts, music, educational television, story time, puppet theatre and film. Nutritional snacks will be provided.

Parents wishing to register their children may call the Children's Center at 887-7724.

Enrollment Up Over Last Winter

After the first two days of registration, 5,085 students, a 5.52 per cent increase over last winter, were enrolled. The FTE of 3,921 shows a 7.17 per cent increase over winter 1983. Both figures will fluctuate until census date, the last day to drop classes. Winter quarter figures traditionally are down from the fall term and this quarter's head count and FTE both are 9.6 per cent below the second day of registration fall quarter.

POW HOTLINE

A special toll-free telephone information hotline for former prisoners of war has been inaugurated by the Veterans Administration, according to Dr. Lois High, director of the Los Angeles VA Regional Office.

The 24-hour toll-free number, 1-800-821-8139, is available to over 93,000 ex-POW's nationwide, and will be staffed by a select group of POW specialists from the Washington, D.C., Regional Office during regular business hours (8 a.m.-4:30 p.m. EST). After-hours and weekend callers may leave a recorded message on the hotline.

Establishment of the hotline allows ex-POW's to inform the VA if they feel they are not being recognized as ex-POW's at VA medical centers or regional offices, or if they feel their treatment is not consistent with the intent of the Prisoners of War Health Care Benefits Act of 1981. The Act broadened VA's authority to provide health care for ex-POW's and also liberalized rules for determining whether certain medical conditions can be considered service-connected.

"Our new information hotline will supplement the existing toll-free services provided for all veterans to VA regional offices nationwide," said Dr. High. "It will also complement the efforts of ex-POW's coordinators assigned at all 172 VA medical centers."

Sigma Beta Upsilon

Rebecca Chaney of Colton is the first president of Sigma Beta Upsilon, a newly formed chapter of the national criminal justice honor society, Alpha Phi Epsilon, at CSCSB.

A senior criminal justice major, she has been named to the national Dean's List for students in the United States and the Cal State Dean's List for 1982-83.

Ron Schultze, a junior criminal justice major of Banning, is the first vice president. Sheryl Hammer, a junior majoring in Criminal Justice and English, originally from Ft. Lauderdale, Fl. and presently a resident of San Bernardino, is the secretary-treasurer.

The national society includes about 60 chapters and encourages scholarship and professionalism within the criminal justice fields. Members will be participating in research paper competition on criminal justice issues at the local and national levels.

A minimum 3.0 (B) overall grade-point average is a prerequisite for membership.

Dr. Donald Lindsey, associate professor of criminal justice, is faculty advisor for the group.

Five Thousand Dollar Scholarship

The President's Committee on Mental Retardation is offering a five thousand dollar scholarship for advanced study in the field of mental retardation. Seniors, graduates, and graduates of programs such as education, social science, medicine, nursing, biological science, psychology and physical therapy are eligible if they meet the stipulations.

The criteria include:

Documented 3.0 gpa; must be able to document an economic need; must be able to document a significant amount of volunteer activity with mentally retarded persons; must be a citizen of the U.S.; must provide evidence of good moral character; accepted into a graduate program; and a letter of recommendation from the dean of your college.

Applications will not be considered after March 1, 1984. Applications may be obtained from the Student Financial Aid Department or write The President's Committee on Mental Retardation, Washington, D.C., 20201.

U.S. Out Of Central America

As the Henry Kissinger Bipartisan Committee Report on Central America is being discussed in our legislative organs, including the recommendation to send 8 billion dollars in military and other aid to Central America over the next five years, it seems relevant that the citizenry of this country educate itself on these foreign affairs which may not seem important here but are of crucial importance to the countries involved. If these intended funds and the billions sent to this area in the past were instead distributed equally among the populace, the people would probably be happier and definitely more friendly to our country. Does American aid and weaponry help to preserve and protect the freedom and well-being of the people in these other countries or does it increase the oppression and misery there?

In light of these matters, or rather in the shadow of these doubts, the campus organization, U.S. Out of Central America, is offering a series of free movies concerning Central American affairs and U.S. relations in the area. The showings will be on Tuesdays at 5:15 p.m. and Wednesdays at 12 noon of each week, all in the SUMP room at the Student Union.

Already shown this week was "El Salvador: Another Vietnam?"; next week will be "Nicaragua 1979: Scenes of a Revolution" on Tuesday, Jan. 24 at 5:15 and Wednesday Jan. 25 at noon, also in the SUMP. Titles to be shown the following weeks will be "Women in Arms," "Man Alive: Saints or Subversives" and "From the Ashes."

Pink Triangles

The film, "Pink Triangles," a documentary designed to explore prejudice against gay men and lesbians will be shown Tuesday, Jan. 24 at 7 and 8 p.m. in the SUMP, and Jan. 25 at noon and 1 p.m. in PL 27.

The film's title was derived from the triangular-shaped pink patch gay men were forced to wear while detained in Nazi concentration camps during WW II. The patch was to identify homosexuals, when the Nazi's believed were a disgrace to the German state.

Today's attitudes toward homosexuality are addressed and re-evaluated through a series of interviews and a historical perspective of the issue is provided.

Admission to this CSCSB Gay & Lesbian Union sponsored film, is free.

UNCLE ELMO'S BETTER HALF

by Greg Timpany

It has been said that behind every famous man there is a woman. History has proved this to be correct. Martha Washington, Bess Truman, and Nancy Reagan all fit the mold. Well even the beloved Uncle Elmo has a better half, in form of Auntie Elma.

Elma was born in the town of Bearspot Tennessee and lived a normal country life up to the age of seventeen, when she decided to leave home for the big city. Her travels led her to the sprawling metropolis of Cracked Ridge Louisiana. At first Elma was bedazzled by big city life, but slowly adapted to the hussle and bussle. She found a job and took up residence in a termite-ridden shack on the outskirts of town. Fate dealt her a losing hand to Elma and she soon lost her job.

She was lonely and destitute in a strange new environment. She did not give up hope though, and it was not long before she met the man of her dreams. That's right folks, that man was Uncle Elmo. Our man Elmo was a handsome young entrepreneur at the time. His hot dog business had begun to grow, and he thought it time to begin his search for a bride. After a heated courtship they were betrothed, and then set off for their honeymoon.

Afterward, they returned and set about the task of managing the family business. Both the marriage and business were doing well until the bottom fell out of the weiner market. Uncle Elmo began hitting the jug, and soon found himself unable to run the business. Elma, in the face of eminent financial disaster, stepped in and with the help of her cousins Fred and Wilma, pulled the business back to its feet. The new management team saw the need for expansion in terms of product line and geographical area. This expansionary policy gave birth to such lines as "Auntie Elma's Baked Goods," and "Fred and Wilma's Frozen Pig Knuckles."

Uncle Elmo Industries soon found itself able to compete with the Oscar Meyer's and the Farmer John's. Just when all was looking good, it became apparent that poor financial planning in the past had left U.E.I. vulnerable to takeover. The astute managers at the Cal State Marketing Association (CSMA) took action. After the necessary legalities were dispensed with, Uncle Elmo Industries became a wholly owned subsidiary of the CSMA.

The CSMA has brought you Uncle Elmo's hotdogs, and now brings you Auntie Elma's Baked Goods. The homemade freshness of Elma's baked goods has made them the rage of the East Coast. If you missed Auntie Elma on this leg of her World tour, don't fear, she will return.

Crime Prevention Tips From Police

by Quentin Moses

The Department of Public Safety (Campus Police) welcomes back to campus all new and returning students. The Department is here to assist the campus community in maintaining a safe learning environment.

Here are a few hints to help prevent crimes of opportunity and make your stay here on campus a pleasant one.

1. Watch your property and be observant of persons around you, especially when studying in the Library, Commons and Student Union.

2. Always lock your vehicle.

3. Avoid walking alone especially during late hours. Share a walk with a friend or call us for an escort at 887-7555.

Report suspicious situations, such as persons loitering in parking or unoccupied areas.

5. Don't assist strangers. Call the Police. If someone needs help, we will be glad to help them.

6. Attend on campus Crime Prevention Seminars.

If you have any questions or Crime Prevention program suggestions call us at 887-7555 and ask for the Crime Prevention Officer.

A.S. Our Activities office has provided a good program including films, dances and other extracurricular activities. Our Services committee has been working develop a quality newspaper on campus by increasing its allocation $4,500. And with money being tight, we have made much effort to raise funds, through such hard too. They've helped to maintain our Jazzercise and Aerobics programs and they're looking for other ways to serve the student body—for example, trying to extend Library hours. We've also been attempting to strengthen our involvement with clubs. I think this will become more evident as our Committee for Clubs continues to work in the Winter quarter. In addition, the Board of Directors demonstrated a strong commitment in helping to activities as the Pizza Ticket our entire fee reduction request, it does represent a historic effort to minimize the fees charged to California residents. Insofar as I am aware, this is the first attempt to reduce student fees significantly by a major institution since the Great Depression. This unprecedented action will be a signal to the nation that California has reaffirmed its commitment to access to higher education.

"In summary, although our entire request has not been funded, allocations proposed in the Governor's Budget for support and capital outlay, and the provision for compensation increases, are a major step toward meeting the needs of the system. It is heartening to know that California is giving a high priority to the quality of higher education.

"The Legislature and the Executive Branch face many critical concerns before adoption this summer a final state budget for the 1984-85 fiscal year. A keen understanding of issues confronting The California State University after years of erosion in many of our programs is essential. I look forward to working closely with those in state government in the immediate months ahead toward the resolution of these important issues."

HEALTH CORNER

Athlete's Foot is Contagious

This is a weekly column. If you have any health-related questions that you would like answered, drop your question in the box in the Health Center lobby.

1. Is there any way for a man to protect himself from getting herpes or chlamydia (non-specific urethritis)?

There is no sure way of protecting yourself except total abstinence. However, tests have been done that prove wearing a condom reduces the chances very much of getting either disease.

The condom is much more protective against chlamydia. However, it is not possible at this time to say to what extent condoms, when properly used, will prevent what diseases. They should provide reasonably high protection from bacteria or viruses which come from the urethra, the end of the penis, or are in the vagina or cervix.

If the female has some open lesions on the outside labia, intercourse can spread these lesions in inside the vagina. The male is also exposed to the areas not covered by the condom and can easily catch herpes. It is best to have no sexual activity until all open sores heal.

2. I am a skier and want to be prepared. What is the best first aid treatment when frostbite is suspected?

When frostbite is suspected, very gentle care must be taken with the extremities, usually the feet. The main problem is a decrease in circulation to the extremity. When this occurs, any break in the skin is very susceptible to infection and very difficult to control. The extremity should not be placed in hot water or wrapped with a heating pad. Gradual warming should occur by staying in a warm room and wrapping the extremity with a soft blanket. If the frostbite is severe with numbness of the foot, then you should report to your physician for more careful follow-up.

3. My roommate has athlete's foot. Is it okay to shower after her? Also, we run barefoot a lot. Is athlete's foot contagious?

Athlete's foot is a fungus infection. This is a very common condition and it is contagious. It grows best in warm, moist places; between the toes is an ideal place. Some people are more susceptible than others because they perspire more to supply the moisture. It is okay to shower after someone with athlete's foot, but be very careful to dry well between your toes. If any signs appear, you should report to the Health Center and we can provide medication for you to treat it.

4. Do the early pregnancy tests that are on the market really work or are they rip-offs? Do you do pregnancy tests at the Health Center?

The over-the-counter pregnancy tests are accurate if conception has occurred approximately thirty days prior to testing. The most accurate results are obtained with a first morning specimen. You should not eat or drink after midnight before collecting the morning specimen of urine.

Yes, pregnancy testing is available at the Health Center. There is also a very sensitive pregnancy test available that can detect pregnancy earlier. It is called beta subunit. It is relatively expensive and measures the chorionic gonadotropin.

5. Is there any connection between taking vitamins and having a clear complexion?

There is no connection between taking vitamins and having a clear complexion in a person who is eating a normal diet. Skin changes can take place in people with a severe vitamin deficiency, such as occurs during starvation.

balance of powers between the executive (the officers and staff), the legislative (the Board of Directors) and the judicial (the Review Board). As far as the executive branch is concerned, we have to run things like a business, and yet, we are not very developed in this area. To meet this need we have been working with A.S. by providing an overall view of the organization, thus helping them to determine where they want to fit in and to know what will be expected of them."

Asked if he had any other comments, Hendry said, "I think the students who have been working in A.S. this past quarter have been excellent. They're reliable and enthusiastic. It makes it easier to work hard when you have a lot of good people working with you, and I am sure that during this next quarter more students will join us, because of the challenges and opportunities made available to them through working with the Associated Students."

"Cal State is a relatively young school, and still in the developmental process. I think the things we're doing now will be foundational for future years."

Advice to Clubs and Organizations

The Activities Office strongly encourages clubs and organizations to plan and schedule activities at least two weeks in advance. This allows adequate time for poster requests and other publicity releases as well as to secure an appropriate location and room arrangement with necessary additional equipment.

The Activities Advisor, Clare Sharafinski, is available during office hours to process your requests, assist with program planning, outline policies and procedures as related to your requests and provide general support as is appropriate to your organization.

If you want to be certain to see the Activities Advisor when you drop by, please call the Activities Secretary to make an appointment at 887-7407 between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m.

The Committee For Clubs meets once a week during the regular academic session to consider club fund requests under $200. Pick up a fund request form from the Activities Advisor and ask to be placed on the Committee for Clubs Agenda.

Record Rack

Uh-Huh by John Cougar-Mellencamp

by Greg Timpany

Album: Uh-Huh by John Cougar-Mellencamp

In some cases less is really more, John Cougar-Mellencamp's album is a case point. There are no bone crunching guitars and there are no trendy synthesizer lines, but there is an album full of good toe-tapping music. Mr. Mellencamp specializes in a brand of music that has been overshadowed by the recent revival of Heavy Metal, and the continuous overflow of "Aerobic New Wave Dance Music." His version of good ol' Midwestern Rock-n-Roll is definitely a refreshing change of pace.

There are several bands that owe their existence to Music Television (MTV). John Cougar is one of them. The constant airplay of his videos has led to the consistent airplay of his records. John has reached a level of success, so that he no longer feels that is necessary to solely use a stage name. It is a shame that a person has to change their name to sell albums, after all their last name has little to do with their musical capabilities.

Side one starts out with "Crumblin' Down." This is a very good song to dance to. In fact, you can dance to almost every song on the album.

"Pink Houses" is the next cut on the album. It's a rare occasion that I would buy an album on the strength of one cut, but I would have bought "Uh-huh" just because of "Pink Houses." This song proves that acoustical music can be very effective in producing a hit record. The "Authority Song" is a prime example of a song that tells an interesting story without using a bookful of lyrics. The side ends with an up-tempo rocker entitled a "Warmer Place to Sleep." Judging by John's popularity I'm sure he does not have to look too far.

Side two starts off on a down note. "Jackie O" is a very poor attempt by John to write lounge music. The song does however, make a good stab at the worldly life of the Jet Set. "Play Guitar" is a fun song that makes me glad I took up the guitar. Next on the album is "Serious Business." This is a simple man's look at the overly complex world that is the music business. "Lovin' Mother Fo Ya" follows, and it always amazes me what people can do to words to make them fit into a song. The album finishes on a nice note. "Golden Gates" is a pleasant slow number that really adds a nice finishing touch to the album.

Overall "Uh-huh" is a stronger album than Cougar's last attempt. If you are a guitar aficionado, like George, then you might not like the album. The same goes if you are turned on by New Wave Music. However, for those of us who like simplicity this album fills that need.

John Cougar-Mellencamp's most recent album has been entitled "Uh-Huh"

Before We Put You In Charge Of The World's Most Sophisticated Nuclear Equipment, We Put You Through The World's Most Sophisticated Nuclear Training.

It takes more than 16 months of intensive training to become a fully qualified officer in the Nuclear Navy. You begin with four months of leadership training. Then as a Navy officer you get a full year of graduate-level training unavailable anywhere else at any price.

Navy training is based on more than 1900 reactor-years of experience. Right now the Navy operates over half the nuclear reactors in America. And the Navy's nuclear equipment is the most sophisticated in the world. That's why your Navy training is and must be the most sophisticated in the world.

As an officer in the Nuclear Navy, you have decision-making authority immediately. You get important management responsibility fast. Because in the Navy, as your knowledge grows, so does your responsibility.

Your training and experience place you among the country's most qualified professionals. (No surprise that most of the men who operate the reactors in private industry started in the Nuclear Navy.)

It takes more time and more effort to become an officer in the Nuclear Navy. But the rewards are greater, too.

The rewards can begin as early as your junior year in college. Qualify, and the Navy will pay you approximately $1000/month while you finish school.

After four years, with regular promotions and salary increases, you can be earning as much as $40,500. That's on top of a benefits package that includes medical and dental care, and 30 days' vacation earned every year. More responsibility, more money, more future. So, if you're majoring in math, engineering or the physical sciences, and you want to know more about a future in nuclear power, fill in the coupon.

Today's Nuclear Navy is an opportunity like no other in the world.

Cafe Shalom

by Carol Leish

Where can you get a cultural awakening while enjoying music and dancing? What's the Hora?

In order to participate in a variety of dances, such as the Israeli Hora dance, come to Cafe Shalom on Jan. 21 at Temple Emanu El, at 35th and E. St. For $2, the festivity starts at 7:30 p.m. and continues through 10:30.

Get a taste of various countries. Learn dances from Israel (Hava Nagilla, Mayim); from Greece (Syrto); from the Balkans (circle dances), from Russia and from the USA.

Niki Shields, popular teacher of international folk-dance, will be teaching the dancing on Jan. 21. Come have fun and socialize while exercising to stay in shape.

Extramural Coed Volleyball To Begin

All interested athletes are invited to an organizational meeting and "try-out" for extramural coed volleyball on Friday, Jan. 20 at 9 a.m. in the large gym.

If you are interested but unable to attend the meeting, please contact Joe Long in PE 124 or call 887-7564.

Priority will be given to those who are present. Play will be on Thursday nights beginning January 26 and ending March 28.

Superbowl Game to be Shown in Pub

The biggest football game of the year, The Superbowl, will be shown on wide screen TV in the Student Union Pub. The big match-up between the Oakland Raiders and the Washington Redskins will be Sunday, January 22.

Free popcorn will be provided throughout the telecast and beer and wine will be on sale.

The Skins are favored in the Superbowl Sunday match-up as they will be trying for their second consecutive championship. The Los Angeles Raiders are the underdogs and have nothing to lose, but everything to gain as they take the field in Tampa Bay Sunday.

Although the Raiders team is based in Los Angeles and have many fans on campus, there are surprisingly a great many Skins fan on campus. The make-up of the fans in the Pub should prove almost as interesting as the expected high scoring game.

The Student Union is generally not open on Sundays, but an exceptions has been made to allow students to view the Superbowl on the wide-screen television.

Runners, such as Dave Pfafman, are frequently seen on our campus.

SENATE BILL 144

California Democratic Senator Garmendi has again seen fit to introduce Senate Bill 144, which would require AFDC mothers with children over 6 to participate in a mandatory job search and "workfare" program. (Workfare means in order to receive their welfare grants, people would have to work a certain number of hours per month...unpaid.) SB 144 was withdrawn in the last legislative session after heavy opposition by organized labor and other concerned groups.

One of the most significant arguments against workfare, and the one which carries the most weight with labor groups, is this: What will happen to an economy with high unemployment when a large number of unskilled workers are made available at a wage less than the market rate? Why would an employer pay $5 an hour in wages when a welfare mother could be acquired from the state for less (at no benefit to the mother)?

In areas where entire industries have shut down, is it reasonable to force unskilled mothers of young children to compete with unemployed workers for already scarce jobs? Remember, the women (as always) will be available at a lower price.

You may be thinking, well, isn't that a good idea, getting women off of welfare, and giving them job skills and experience? In areas of the country where workfare has been tried, people have been placed in "dead end" and "make work" jobs, with little possibility of gaining unsubsidized employment or earning enough to become financially independent.

What has happened is that the government has saved a little money here and there by partially or fully reducing the aid to participating families for non-compliance with the complicated and confusing regulations of these programs. (Keep in mind that about 75% of all people on welfare in California are children, already living below the poverty level, who would be the ones most hurt by any reduction in or stoppage of income of their families.)

SB 144 would not exempt women who are attending college to get the skills necessary to secure employment with high enough income to support their children. Welfare mother/students with children under 6 would not only go to school, take care of their home responsibilities, (child possibly working part-time), they would be required to participate in workfare and look for a prescribed number of jobs each month.

Underlying the concept of workfare for mothers is an idea of concern to all women: the status of "women's work" in our society. SB 144 assumes that mothers of young children are not performing a productive function (caring for the future members of our society) but are "just sitting around the house collecting welfare."

CSCSB INQUIRY

Critical Issues of the '84 Presidential Campaign

What issue will you consider the most important when casting your vote in the U.S. presidential election?

R. Cassinelli, Liberal Studies/Humanities/English

The issue with which I have the greatest concern is the continuing ineptitude in foreign relations displayed by the current administration. The unfortunate state of affairs, however, is only a continuance of past practices. Inevitably, despite the rhetoric of those who run for president, U.S. foreign policy has remained essentially unchanged for at least the last 50 years. It is absolutely essential that we become aware of one fact: We do not have the answer within our own system to the domestic problems of every country. Proper compromise and negotiation leave all the parties to negotiations satisfied.

Jeri Reed, Social Science

While I'm most concerned about domestic issues the central issue I will consider in the presidential election is the candidate's stance on foreign policy and his ability to bring about change in what the U.S. is doing in Central America and the Middle East. I will probably support Jesse Jackson, because I definitely would not vote for Reagan, and I believe that Jackson has shown that he has the ability to deal with third world nations. Because he is black, it gives him an advantage. I don't believe that the other Democratic candidates will be much better than Reagan in terms of foreign policy, although I like Cranston's point of view.

Anonymous, English

I am most concerned at this time, with a candidate's financial and economic views. It seems to me that the U.S. should become more secure economically and provide and plan more effectively for our own citizens. Perhaps then we will be more efficient in our foreign policies.

Anonymous, Biology

I would consider international relations important. These days all of us have to understand and respect everyone's special interests. The planet Earth is the only home we have...so let's save it and live together.

Stephen Pearce Killian, B.A., English

The issue I consider most important is "peace and justice," which are inseparable. I mean peace and justice throughout the world. I am going to vote for Jesse Jackson because he seems to understand the world better than does any other candidate. My wife, Kuei Wang, who has a M.B.A. from Cal State is a citizen of Taiwan, agrees with me. Infact, she influenced my decision.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

We Need An Honest Sincere Fee Proposal

While the Governor and the Legislature are negotiating over the devastating community college funding crisis, students at the California State University are currently paying the second installment of the single largest fee increase in this state's history.

We at the state universities fully understand the fears of community college students over adequate funding and the imposition of a fee. Remember that at a time when the state was broke, Governors turned to CSU and UC students to balance the budget. Since 1980, CSU student fees have increased nearly 300%—including this year's $250 increase which we are still contesting in court.

Over the last couple of years, it became clear to us that the only rational response to these rapid increases would be to index student fees. So, last year we introduced a measure, Assembly Bill 1251 by Assemblywoman Moore, which places CSU student fees within percentage ranges to be adjusted annually based on committed state dollars and enrollment in higher education. According to this newly-adopted law, a $27 fee reduction is mandated in 1984-85. However, we trust that the Governor, in his second budget, as well as subsequent ones, will comply with the spirit of AB 1251 and ACR 81 of 1982 to keep fees moderate and predictable. We need an honest, sincere fee proposal rather than one filled with political symbolism.

Finally, I would like to point out that State University students are attempting to do something to ensure some sort of fiscal stability for postsecondary education. We soon intend to introduce an oil severance tax measure with the revenue earmarked for higher education. We do not believe it is unfair to ask oil companies to return some of their profits to replenish the state's public education systems from which they draw many of their own technicians and engineers.

by Ed Van Ginkel, Chair Calif. State Student Assoc.

Rebuttal to "Frustrations of Registration"

After reading the snotty letter submitted by Mr. Timpany (Jan. 12 issue), I feel compelled to defend the faculty and students who work to make the registration process run as smoothly as possible.

I would like to meet the individual who has a more efficient method of placing more than 5,000 students in their desired classes over a two day period.

Mr. Timpany refers to the students who try to facilitate swift moving lines by reminding us to have our cards in order as "annoying." He has the gall to suggest that the dedicated faculty members of CSCSB "enjoy seeing students pull out their hair and shred their class schedules!" I find this infuriating!

We students are fortunate for the opportunity to attend such a fine college. It is well worth waiting in line for a few hours each quarter. CSCSB has an outstanding and unusually concerned faculty.
